Fall lunch program serving up international cuisine

JENN WATT
County Life Editor

Delicious dishes from around the world will be sizzling on the stoves of SIRCH Central this fall for a special program called Cook It Up All Fall.

Each Monday and Thursday starting this week, lunches will be available to purchase – either eat-in or take-out – focused on specific culinary traditions such as Indian, Thai, Central American or Korean.

"For the community, we're offering this cool international menu. We tried to do items that were sort of outside what was available locally," said Jay McIvor, food service co-ordinator at SIRCH.

McIvor worked at Camp Wanakita for 14 years as a chef and has travelled and lived abroad, picking up new skills. He said Cook It Up All Fall always has a vegetarian option and that if customers call ahead, he can also accommodate other dietary restrictions, such as gluten free or vegan diets.

McIvor will be cooking meals alongside Lydia Kim, a graduate of SIRCH's Cook It Up program, who worked for SIRCH during the summer program which ran out of the high school.

Although Cook It Up All Fall isn't the same format as the standard Cook It Up (which returns this winter), they are taking volunteers to help out.

"This program we've invited past participants to come and participate, volunteer, brush up their skills and potential participants to come and observe," McIvor said.

Getting experience this fall will help those who are on the fence about trying a new career path, or taking the Cook It Up course, make the decision, said Angelica Ingram, SIRCH's communications specialist.

It gives them "a taste without having to commit to anything," she said.

The fall lunches serves a third purpose: raising money.

"This is also, aside from the training part, a fundraiser for Community Kitchen," Ingram said. "Part of the proceeds will go to funding Community Kitchen so we can continue to give out those meals."

Community Kitchen is a program that brings together volunteers to prepare frozen meals distributed to those in need in Haliburton County.

There is plenty of choice for customers of Cook It Up All Fall. Each day offers a choice of a lunch with meat or without. Soup and salad are available. They can also choose whether to get take-out or to eat in, though there isn't table service. In addition, SIRCH is offering two- and four-person dinners that can be ordered and taken out.

To find out what SIRCH has cooking, check their Facebook page. To order your meal ahead of time or inquire about the menu, call or text the dedicated line: 705-455-2072.

Cook It Up All Fall runs each Monday and Thursday from now until Dec. 6 at SIRCH Central: 2 Victoria St., Haliburton, from noon to 4 p.m.

Tracking the Shift

A few weeks ago I went into a Staples store in Huntsville looking for a refill for a treasured pen, a pen that was presented to me, engraved with my name, when I graduated with my Ph.D. in Transformative learning about 15 years ago. Just 15.

After looking at a wall of pens with only a couple of briefer rows of refills and not finding the one sought, I went to the counter and asked the attendant, an older man like myself, only to be told "well, refills for pens are dying out now. Why buy a refill when you can get a whole new pen for cheaper than a refill would cost?" So I showed him the pen and why it is a treasure of mine, and he responded "Oh, I really get that, all right, but I don't have a choice about any of this. You will just have to put it in a souvenir box if you want to keep it."

I have thought of this encounter many many times. It has become something of a symbol for me of our throwaway world, of our continuing unconciousness and refusal to see what is happening, of our daily and deliberate trashing of our only home. It makes me think of something written by Carl Jung in 1959:

"A great change of our psychological attitude in imminent: the only real danger that exists is man himself. He is the great danger and we are pitifully unaware of it. We are the origin of all coming evil."

In these times, just following the news, it is very easy to see the truth of Jung's words; in fact, this particular quote has taken on for me the deep truth of a prophecy in our time, and its unfolding has only recently begun to show itself visibly.

It was during this startling realization that I came upon an echoing quote, this time by Melvin Konner in his book The Tangled Wing. He tells the anecdote of a man going to one of the largest zoos in the world, attracted by the number, variety and size of the animals. Just inside the gate, he sees a very large sign in thick black letters saying "The Most Dangerous Animal on Earth," and he rushes over to look at what might be written beneath it, in smaller letters. Instead, standing beneath the sign, he finds himself looking into a mirror.

These and other experiences remind me starkly that we are moving from one world into another now. Perhaps mainly those of us in our 70s, with the long view of how things used to be, can even begin to fathom the depth and extent of the changes that even now tug at our ankles. I feel myself shifted as the Jewish people were shifted, not of their own choice, in their long journeys throughout centuries, or like Brendan the Navigator, who set out for unknown lands across the sea, with no guide or compass.

And all because I went into a Staples store in Huntsville, looking for a pen refill!

Circles

Circle of Sun pulsing up in Sky,
Air listening to the language of hands,
fingers of light bathing the Lake,
tendrils of sound threading through the trees,
notes sliding off limbs, dripping from leaves,
as hundreds of hands lash the skin of drums,
the sound of a single heartbeat pounding in our ears,
as we birth a rhythm ancient as Breath,
throbbing in our blood, flooding the Air, as seagulls swoop above us, their screeches drowned by our song,
that breeze carries over the hills,
into the stillness of the forest,
where the trunks of trees throb beneath their bark,
the thrumming of our hands seeping into their silence,
like Rain into the earth.
How rooted, I feel, my feet, firm on the ground,
my hands slapping the skin of the drum,
in this circle of others, who are doing the same,
hearing our hands speak,
locking eyes with strangers, who, for a moment, become kin, listening to the rhythm of the Breath beneath our skin.
I begin to lose track of time, yet am more aware of it at the same time.
Sunlight licking blades of grass,
the shadows of trees swallowing tongues of Sun.
The gleam in a girl's eyes as she passes, pausing on the fringe of the circle,
to bang an imaginary drum with the sticks of her arms.
I watch her shimmy and sway,
dancing to a rhythm only she can hear,
two circles of Sun pulsing in the amber flecks of her eyes,
while our hands keep slapping the skin of the drums,
Air cradling our heartbeat,
like it did before we were even born.

Foggy final days

Fog patches fill the dips in the landscape.

Uncertainty reigns these last days of a blistering summer…

As political negotiations fumble across the planet causing Uncertainty for thousands coast to coast, north to south, Indigenous & non-Indigenous…

All lives further complicated and unsure as days become more and more unpredictable as we ponder the wisdom (or folly) of pipelines, possible trade wars, unbridled weather variations.

Like fog, which alternatively lifts and settles, our lives rise and dip into the final days of approaching winter.

Old wineskins

It may be brittle
It may be cracked
It may have lost its full flavor

But deep within its walls memories persist

… and so does the will to see beauty.

The beauty of life continuing to see what is in every sunrise, every life, every place, every circumstance and more…

The ability and privilege to be witness to it all, and to share the full flavor of an old vintage with those willing to listen.

Top 10 reasons for wishing the heat would go away

I THINK WE CAN all agree, this past weekend the heat was on. And while this is great during the summer, we're now approaching autumn when the nights ought to be cooler and the days a little more brisk. This is simply unnatural.

With that in mind, here are 10 reasons I wish the heat would leave us till spring.

STEVE GALEA
Humour Columnist

1. I don't want to walk into hunt camp with these bikini lines.
2. My air conditioner is starting to demand overtime.
3. I swear the geese are flying north.
4. My deodorant just can't handle the workload.
5. I'm not sure if socks and sandals will be practical in the duck blind.
6. I bought all those long johns for a reason.
7. I'm starting to run out of excuses for not mowing the lawn.
8. I'm starting to notice that even the bass I'm catching have parched lips.
9. No man should ever sweat reaching for a cold one.
10. I invested heavily in the wool sock market.

Low-cost rabies vaccination clinics

Local pet owners are reminded about upcoming low-cost rabies vaccination clinics being held in Haliburton County during the last week of September. The annual clinics are organized by local veterinarians in partnership with the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit.

"Many of us consider a dog or cat to be part of our family, so the low-cost rabies vaccination clinics provide an opportunity to give these pets the protection they deserve," says Bruce Barthorpe, a public health inspector with the HKPR District Health Unit. "Rabies is fatal, so getting pets vaccinated is an important part of caring for animals and being a responsible pet owner."

The low-cost rabies vaccination clinics cost only $30 per animal (cash only). No examination of the animal will take place at the clinic, and participating veterinarians ask that dogs be on leashes and cats in carriers. The Low-Cost Rabies Vaccination Clinics are set to take place as follows:

Thursday, September 27

Cardiff:

Faraday Animal Clinic runs a clinic at Cardiff Community Centre (2747 Monck Rd.), 6 to 7 p.m.

Saturday, September 29

Haliburton:

Haliburton Veterinary Services runs a clinic at the Haliburton Fire Hall, 9 am to Noon.

Bridletown Warden Animal Hospital runs a clinic at the Pet Valu Store (231 Highland St.), 10 am to 4 pm.

To learn more about rabies and the upcoming clinics for pets, call the health unit at 1-866-888-4577, ext. 5006, or visit www.hkpr.on.ca.

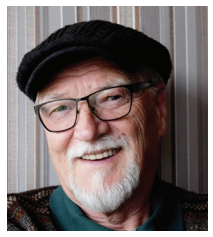
The Professor is missing

SCOTT CUSHNIE, aka Professor Piano, has not been seen in well over a month. Not familiar with him? Well you might have heard him playing piano on Aerosmith's Toys in the Attic, for which he received gold and platinum albums. You might have seen him playing with a multitude of bands in Toronto; the Rockin' Deltoids, The Canadian Aces, and in Diamondback, with Canadian blues guitar legend Mike McKenna.



GEORGE FARRELL
On Arts/Culture

The Professor, in his early career, played piano for Ronnie Hawkins and the Hawks, before they went on to become The Band. It was Cushnie who convinced Hawkins to hire young guitar whiz Robbie Robertson, who had previously played in one of Cushnie's own bands. Robertson went on to bec ome The Band's lead guitarist. Cushnie is mentioned prominently in the early chapters of Robertson's book Testimony: A Chronicle of Life with The Band.

So, you may ask, what has all this to do with the Highlands? Well, I met Scott Cushnie about 45 years ago, in Giggles, a little café on Marlborough Street, in Toronto, which was a hangout for artists, poets and musicians. We've been friends ever since. The Professor became the biggest single musical influence in my life. It was he who introduced me to boogie woogie, and the music of people like Fats Waller, Dr. John, Louis Prima, Leon Russell, and so many more. He took me musically to New Orleans, and it was the Professor who taught me about the originators of a lot of the music I came to love.

When I moved to the Highlands in the early '80s the local music scene consisted mainly of country and folk, and I longed to hear some of the great music that I had been missing. Eventually in 2011, I teamed up with Dominion Hotel proprietor Shawn Chamberlin to form the Canadian Blues Legends series. The Professor came to open our series with Diamondback, featuring McKenna. Local musician Ian Pay sat in on bass. They were a huge hit and Diamondback came back again the following year.

But perhaps Cushnie's most memorable performance at the Dominion came when he played with long-time friend, guitarist Mitch Lewis, who was with him in the heydays of the Rockin' Deltoids and the Canadian Aces. The duo billed as Mitch and the Professor, put on a great show and the Prof' entertained not just with his playing, but also with his anecdotes. He has an encyclopedic mind when it comes to information on the music from the '30s to the '70s. The blues series at the Dominion, I believe, influenced the Folk Society who have had blues performers come to the Winter Folk Camp. Canoe FM is now playing way more blues, R&B and soul; and without meeting Scott I would not be singing with our band Cheeky Monkey. So, as you can see Scott Cushnie has had some influence on our fair county.

Now for the sad details regarding his disappearance (as of press time). Toronto police say Cushnie, 80, was reported missing on Aug. 29. He was last seen on Aug. 7 in the King Street East and River Street area, wearing a yellow jacket and beige pants. He's described as six feet tall, with short, grey hair and a medium build. He's legally blind and wears dark glasses.

Andrea Reid, Cushnie's friend for the last decade, says he was mentally sharp and independent despite his impaired vision. She said, in an online CTV article by reporter Michael Talbot, that: "Surveillance video from Aug. 7 showed him buying something at a Shoppers Drug Mart near his home, and … he hasn't been seen or heard from since."

Reid, with the help of detectives, searched Cushnie's apartment where they found his wallet, including credit cards. She says Cushnie's bank activity stopped around Aug. 7, the day he was last seen. In the same CTV article Mitch Lewis said of his long-time friend and collaborator: "He's a one-of-a-kind eccentric with a sharp mind and great intellectual curiosity. He's funny and extremely well-informed about any subject you could imagine. I don't figure that dementia or a diminution of any of his faculties is a factor here."

Friends of Scott Cushnie have distributed a poster in his neighbourhood. The poster notes Cushnie was last seen the night of intense rainfall and flooding through parts of downtown. The police are searching waterways.

Despite his friend's ominous disappearance, Lewis says he's "clinging to the hope that Professor Piano will resurface and start tickling the ivories again like the old days."

"I'm really hoping that something weird has happened and he's going to show up and phone me and give me [heck] for making a big fuss about nothing." Toronto police are asking anyone who has information about Cushnie's whereabouts to contact 51 Division at 416-808-5100.

After all this time I fear the worst. But your prayers wouldn't go amiss.

Chamber asks shoppers to Buy Close By

JENNIFER LOCKE
Chamber News

MY NAME IS Jennifer Locke and I am the manager of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce. I would like to take this opportunity to thank County Life, our media partner, for this opportunity to increase community awareness of the Chamber.

I officially began in this role in May, and it has been a truly exciting time! We signed on six new board members during the June annual general meeting at Rhubarb Restaurant. These fresh faces mean continued success for the Chamber, and quality member services and programs for many years ahead.

At the end of June, we launched the #BuyCloseBy Project in partnership with the Haliburton County Development Corporation, the County of Haliburton – Tourism Department, the Haliburton County Home Builders Association, the Algonquin Gateway Business Association, the Municipality of Highlands East and the Haliburton Village Business Improvement Association.

This initiative was launched to raise awareness of our great local enterprises, encourage everyone to keep their dollars local, and to increase prosperity across the Haliburton Highlands.

For example, did you know that for every $1 spent at a local business, it drives about $7 into the local economy through purchases, taxes, etc.? It's also estimated that spending at independent retailers allows for 50 times (yes, 50!) more local economic activity than spending online.

Through the #BuyCloseBy project, we want everyone to think local first! So, please spread the word by using #BuyCloseBy on your posts about the business people, products, shops, restaurants, and services that you love in the Haliburton Highlands. Remember, when we #BuyCloseBy, we are supporting our firefighters and paramedics, our municipal workers, along with our friends, family and neighbours!

Now that the busy season is over, the Chamber is having our monthly breakfast and networking events again, where we provide an opportunity for networking, a great meal at one of our members' establishments, and an engaging speaker and topic that relates to everyday business. At our next breakfast, we are fortunate enough to have secured Graydon Smith, the Mayor of Bracebridge, to speak about business-municipal relations. It will be at Miner's Bay Lodge on Oct. 2, starting at 7:30 a.m. If you're interested in attending, please go to our website to register.

Every year, the Chamber puts on educational events for Small Business Week. I am currently finalizing plans for at least five key events on topics like social media marketing, workplace safety, and employee retention. I will be announcing them within the week, but I am very excited to offer these workshops and seminars absolutely free to our members!

For all of the details on these initiatives, events, and to find out more about the benefits of becoming a member, please go to our website www.haliburtonchamber.com, or call me at the Chamber office at 705-457-4700. I look forward to serving our members and engaging with the wider community, and I wish everyone a prosperous fall season!

All-candidates meetings continue this week

Voters in Haliburton County have an opportunity to meet the candidates looking for their support in the upcoming municipal election.

Five all-candidates meetings have been planned by the county's various media outlets with the second one this week.

On Thursday, Sept. 13, a meeting featuring the candidates in Ward 1 and 3 in Algonquin Highlands was held in Dorset.

Candidates for Ward 1, the geographic township of Sherborne, are Julia Shortreed and David Lawson.

Candidates for Ward 3, the geographic township of McClintock, Livingstone, Lawrence and Nightingale, are Jennifer Dailloux and Brian Lynch.

In Algonquin Highlands, Mayor Carol Moffatt was acclaimed, as were Councillors Lisa Barry and Liz Danielsen of Ward 2.

The Highlands East all candidates meeting is Thursday, Sept. 20 at 7 p.m. at the Lloyd Watson Centre in Wilberforce. While Cec Ryall was acclaimed for Ward 3 (Glamorgan), the rest of the seats are contested.

The mayor's seat is a race between Dave Burton and Cheryl Ellis; Ward 1 (Bicroft) is between Cam McKenzie and Steven Kauffeldt; in Ward 2 (Cardiff) Suzanne Partridge has competition from Jane Russell; and in Ward 4 (Monmouth), four candidates are seeking the seat: James (Jim) Deterling, Peter Fredricks, Ruth Strong, and Bradley Keller. Mike Jaycock has agreed to be the moderator for that event.

The meeting for Minden Hills is planned for Thursday, Sept. 27 at 7 p.m. at the Minden Hills Community Centre. Deputy Mayor Lisa Schell has been acclaimed, however, there are many candidates looking to win the other seats at the council table. For mayor, Jarrett Campbell, Brent Devolin and Wayne Hancock are all in the running. The councillor at large seat has two nominees: Ron Nesbitt and John Teljeur. Ward 1 has a long list of candidates vying for two seats: Richard Bradley, Clayton Cameron, Bob Carter, Jennifer Hughey, Rob Luke and Dwight Thomas. For Ward 2, there are two people running: Mike Grozelle and Pam Sayne. Ward 3 also has two running: Russ Duhaime and Jean Neville. The meeting's moderator will be Jack Brezina.

Dysart et al has its candidates meeting the following week, on Thursday, Oct. 4 at 7 p.m. That meeting will be at Fleming College, with Sue Shikaze as moderator.

Running for mayor are Murray Fearrey and Andrea Roberts. Dennis Casey and Patrick Kennedy are both seeking the deputy mayor position. Ward 1 is a contest between Bram Lebo and Nancy Wood-Roberts. Ward 2 is between Larry Clarke, David McKay and Mike Stinson. In Ward 3, Cindy Baumhour and Tammy Donaldson are both running for the seat. Ward 4 is between John Smith and Aaron Walker. And Ward 5 is a contest between Walt McKechnie and Glenn Scott.

On the last week of candidates meetings, all of those seeking a seat as mayor or deputy mayor are invited to a meeting primarily about county issues. That takes place at Fleming College in Haliburton on Thursday, Oct. 11 at 7 p.m. Jack Brezina will be the moderator.

Gull problems persist on Mountain Lake
by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff
"Embarrassed" was a term used by some members of Minden Hills council as they heard presentations from residents of Mountain Lake during an Aug. 30 meeting.
For years, the lake has been plagued by a seagull population who feed at the township's nearby Scotch Line landfill, and then retreat to the lake, where they litter the water, decks, docks and boats.
"I'm not talking about 10, 20, 50 or 100 seagulls," resident Kym Hanson told councillors, adding that a few a days before the council meeting, a count had found nearly 700 gulls in one of the lake's bays.
Hanson said the birds soil her family's dock and swimming area with feces, feathers and garbage from the landfill. She is a mother to two young daughters and said her family must clean out the water near their cottage before the girls can go swimming.
A detailed presentation she'd prepared showed images of large flocks of seagulls on the lake, as well as their covering docks and boats.
"Before I even get out of bed, I start to feel anxious – are there going to be seagulls sitting there?" she said, adding she was sure that

Judy Flieger awarded lifetime membership by Legion

DARREN LUM
County Life Staff

Basking in the afternoon sunlight, Judy Flieger accepted her lifetime membership from friends and comrades at the Royal Canadian Legion branch 636 Minden on Saturday, Sept. 8.

Flieger earned the award for outstanding service and was presented her lifetime membership card, pin and badge from president Jim Ross and first vice president Jim Donaldson.

Ross commended Flieger for turning the finances of the branch around.

When she joined the Minden Legion several years ago, it was $4,000 in debt. After three years as president, the branch had $89,000 in the bank. As a result the branch has a strong future. The money enabled renovations to the building, which included new floors and washrooms.

Flieger appreciated the recognition for her hard work, but shared the success.

"It's not just one person. It's a group of people working together. The executive I had was absolutely wonderful," she said.

She said success stems from running the Legion like a business and the support of her husband.

"Not a cheque went out of this place in the three years I was president that I didn't sign. I think it is so important to [have] control over your expenditures and watch your inventory ... the same as it is in any business. I have to thank my husband, Roy, my right-hand person. Without him none of this would have been possible. He was more help than anybody realizes," she said.

In addition to executive members, Flieger made sure to thank her friend and Legion volunteer, Helen Ford. She calls her the "resident hugger."

Everybody who comes into the Legion receives a hug, she said, laughing.

Flieger presented Ford with a quilt she made that included a hand-written poem on a stitched heart, just minutes after her own ceremony. The quilt was symbolic of the Legion's love she wanted her friend to feel and the perpetual hug it will convey every time she uses it.

"Everybody loves Helen. As I said in my speech, she's not even a member, and yet she did so much for us, helping out with different events," she said.

Locally, the Legion is responsible for helping a variety of charitable organizations such as Fuel for Warmth, Wounded Warriors, Food for Kids Haliburton County and the Minden Food Bank.

"It's just giving back to the community. We have so much as Canadians. We have so much. If everybody gave back a little bit it would make such a difference in the world," she said.

She's been a volunteer in some capacity the last 55 years.

As a former president, she's most proud about how the Legion moved the Remembrance Day ceremonies to the downtown four years ago. Recognizing and helping veterans is at the heart of all of her work with the Legion. It is important for Flieger, who had two uncles that served in the military and her dad who did his part as an air raid warden in Oakville.

Flieger first joined the Legion in 2004 in Brighton, Ont., to help and to pay respect to veterans, who she believes need support. They served so others didn't have to. She said many were left with post-traumatic stress disorder, which wasn't treated or even recognized. It not only hurt them, but also their families. She hasn't forgotten this and wants others to remember what they did.

"We wouldn't have what we have today without them," she said.

2018 Municipal Candidates Survey

CLIMATE CHANGE (ADAPTATION):

Climate change is accelerating, and municipalities around the world are rushing to adapt to the impacts of severe weather, flooding and invasive species. Jurisdictions surrounding Haliburton County already have or are developing Climate Change Adaptation Plans to protect people and property from the impact of the climate changes already locked in by past greenhouse gas emissions.

If elected, will you commit to doing everything you can to develop a county-wide Climate Change Adaptation Plan within the next term of council?

Over the coming weeks, follow this space in County Life, as we share the questions we're asking would-be Mayors, Deputy Mayors, and Councillors. Survey results will be posted to www.environmenthaliburton.org/ mid-September.

HHHS ready to open new facilities

After years of anticipation, the moment has finally arrived.

The new health care facilities in Minden and Haliburton will be officially opened this Friday.

The construction of the new hospitals and long-term care facilities has been a dream that has stretched back more than 15 years. In that time the community has watched and waited as studies were ordered, criteria altered and plans abandoned, until a firm commitment from the Ministry of Health set the process in motion that will culminate with the ribbon cuttings this Friday.

Even though the projects will be officially opened, areas at both sites are still several months away from being operational. In Minden, the 62 residents of Hyland Crest have moved into the new long-term care wing. The hospital, in the lower portion of the renovated wing of Hyland Crest will probably not be opened for another month. The same holds true for the primary care centre space on the second floor. The Haliburton Highlands Health Services Board has yet to receive funding for the centre, so its operation may be some time off.

In Haliburton, the new emergency department has been open for several month. The acute care patients, who have been occupying rooms in the long-term care wing, should be moved back into the hospital this week. Long-term care residents will be moved into the new 30 bed wing next month.

"All the pieces may not be exactly in place, but

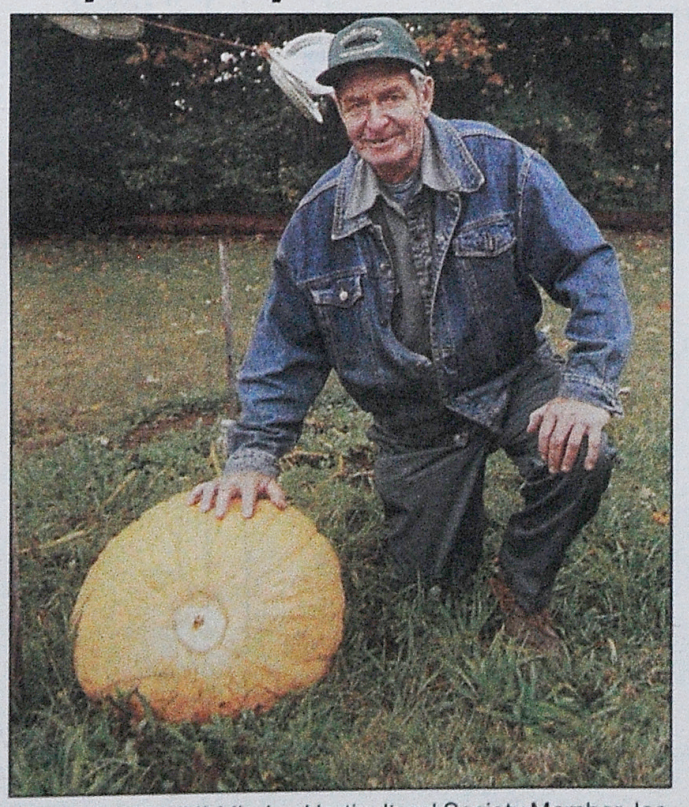
The giant pumpkins are coming

A busy summer of fertilizing, cultivating and weeding is quickly coming to an end and nervous gardeners throughout the Minden area are watching as their monster pumpkins make their last all-out effort to pack on the pounds. The green thumb specialists are participating in the Minden Horticultural Society's First Annual Giant Pumpkin Contest.

The fruits of their labour will be weighed Thanksgiving Saturday, October 7, at McMahon's Feed 'n Needs, Main Street, Minden.

Members of the Horticultural Society were given five Howard Dill Pumpkin Seeds, (rated champion growers), which have the capacity to produce 1000 pound pumpkins. The Pumpkin Growers Association is offering $100,000 in prizes for the first pumpkin to reach 1500 pounds. This year is the first time Minden Horticultural Society has participated in the international contest. Several years ago the society had its own contest for the heaviest fruit.



HOLY PUMPKIN! Minden Horticultural Society Member Joe Rivers kneels beside one of his largest pumpkins which he has tended all summer.

Champion growers recommend a 40" x 40" area for one plant. Weekly waterings and feeding schedules are necessary. This regimen coupled with a champion seed plus good fertile soil and protection from the elements in the fall all contribute to the growth of a giant pumpkin.

The local weigh-in will include some additional attractions. At the event, the society will be offering preserves, baked items and garden produce. Funds raised will be used to assist the organization. Participants in the contest must be a member of the Horticultural Society. Anyone who has grown a pumpkin may enter after they purchase a $3 membership. Contact Nancy Garbutt at 286-1843 to participate.

The prizes in the local contest may not match the amounts being given away in the world competition, however they do provide some recognition for a summer's worth of loving care. First prize is $25; second prize, $15; third prize $10.

Exit package delay in Victoria

by Matthew Sitler

Disturbed and deferred. That is the sequence of last week's events regarding the release of a Draft Voluntary Exit Package (VEP) offered by the City of Kawartha Lakes Transition Board. Developed by the Personnel Task Force for the Transition Board, the VEP was issued to municipalities for distribution among their employees two weeks ago.

Sent out to the Municipalities on Thursday, September 14, it was hoped the draft would be in affected employees hands to study over the weekend, and during the first half of last week. This was not to be the case.

It wasn't until as late as Wednesday, September 20,
